Mother, Six Children And Six Guests Die When Fire Hits Home

They're Here and Welcome.

Sir Drummond's Idea.

When Lasker Obligated.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

BARON HUENEFELD and Koehl, German fliers, and James Fitzmaurice, the Irishman, GOT HERE, and that's the main thing. The Atlantic is cheated of its prey this time. All that skill and courage could accomplish the fliers did. Lack of fuel forced them down.

The immediate need of airplanes is fuel more compact, more power, less weight. Electricity doesn't weigh anything, can be sent through the air without wires.

Some day the flier will travel in an electrically driven machine, picking up wireless power from the earth.

Meanwhile STANDARD OIL LABORATORIES MAY FIND A WAY TO GET MORE ENERGY INTO A GALLON OF GASOLINE.

COMMANDER BYRD, fine type of American sailor on water and in the air, wired to Germany that American fliers are overjoyed and proud of their fellow fliers. "I knew Germany could do it." That's the right spirit and expresses the goodwill of all America.

IN BLAIRFOUR, Huenefeld you will see a man who knows how to fight as well as fly. He was through the war and not in the rear. Six times he went to the operating table and came off alive. He carried as mascot a shamrock that his Irish friend, Fitzmaurice, gave him, and Fitzmaurice received from Von Huenefeld a tiny, one-inch long silver doll that the German carried through the war.

SIR DRUMMOND FRAZER, vice president of the British Institute of Bankers, tells London's Financial Times it would be a fine idea to establish a "world store house of gold." All the world's gold would be put in it to back up the nations on a gold basis.

NOT a bad idea for Britain. Of course, Mr. Easy-Mark-Shylock Uncle Sam would be expected to put in his gigantic pile of gold, more than double what any other nation has.

Mr. Drummond kindly points out this would be a splendid thing for America. We have so much gold, says he, that our country is suffering from credit inflation. Don't laugh; he is serious about it.

ONCE Albert D. Lasker, who abominates gambling, was persuaded to "freeze out" for the amount of a dollar he had won at golf from Herbert Fleischacker, of San Francisco. Lasker said with deep conviction to his opponent: "I really believe you play poker better than I do."

OUR Bolshevik friends have made a similar remarkable discovery. The "Pravda," official organ, says westerners in the United States are "so cool to Communist propaganda because they are prosperous and get such high wages."

The learned Bolshevik editor says the "Paradox" of America's hostility to communism is the one word "PROSPERITY."

Correct. To discourage vice, make it expensive. To protect men and big fortunes at the top, take care of the people at the bottom.

GERMAN genius invents an automobile that starts on the "rocket" principle, reaching a speed of sixty miles an hour from a standstill in six seconds.

The start is made by exploding a charge of gunpowder. The idea is relied on to carry men, some day, to the outer limits of our atmosphere in (Continued on Page 8, Column 2)

QUEBEC, April 16.—A second plane hopped off at Murray Bay today for Greenely Island, 800 miles away, where Capt. Herman Koehl, Baron von Huenefeld and Commandant James E. Fitzmaurice were marooned when the German trans-Atlantic plane Bremen was forced down by lack of fuel. This plane, which is piloted by Romeo Savachon, carried Leslie Roberts, International News Service correspondent and a photographer. It took off at 8 a. m.

The Trans-Continental Airways, Ltd., which owns the airdrome at Murray Bay, sent a wireless message to "Duke" Schiller and Dr. Louis Cuisinier at Greenely Island to remain there until the plane leaving Murray Bay this morning arrives there.

To Land at Seven Islands.

Unless held back by bad weather, Savachon expected to reach Greenely Island before 5 o'clock this afternoon. If storms hold back the plane a landing may be made at Seven Islands. It was at that place that Schiller and Cuisinier landed on their flight to Greenely Island.

OFFICER SLAIN AFTER BANDITS STAGE HOLD-UP

Machine Gun Used in Firing Upon Toledoan.

KILLERS ESCAPE

Detroit Desperadoes Abandon $10,000 Taken From Truck.

TOLEDO, O., April 16.—A policeman is dead, with a machine gun bullet wound in his head, following a daring daylight hold-up, staged by a gang of desperadoes, believed to have been from Detroit here, early today.

Five bandits overcame the guards on an American Express company truck, near the Union station and forced the driver to proceed to the University of Toledo, near the city limits. The three guards had been bound and gagged with rope and heavy tape, and were left in the truck.

On the university campus, the bandits abandoned the big Packard-eight in which they first overtook the truck and then entered three waiting automobiles which went three different directions, according to reports.

Police were notified, through underworld channels, that one of the cars went to a garage on the outskirts of the city. Patrolmen George Zintara and John Bliskupski went to the garage in a police car and the latter went to the rear of the building, while Zintara remained in front and called to the men in the building, demanding that they come out.

File in Police Car.

Instead they opened fire with a machine gun, one bullet passing completely through Zintara's head. As Bliskupski came from behind the building he was confronted by the three armed bandits who commanded him to put up his hands.

The officer complied and the robbers disarmed him and drove away in the police car. A subsequent search (Continued on Page 8, Column 2)

The two youths are alleged to have been drinking and to have created a disturbance at the ball. Police were attempting to eject them when Lieutenant Roe arrived. It is charged, and Tamburra, recognizing him, and presumably expecting him to join his fellow officers in the melee, dived into the lieutenant and threw him down the stairs.

400 OHIO HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS STRIKE WHEN PRINCIPAL QUILTS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 16.—The four hundred high school pupils here who went on "strike" this morning following the resignation of J. H. Ertz, principal, last Saturday when he was charged with a number of petty burglaries, will return to their classes this afternoon, according to announcement of the board of education here, that they had reached a compromise with the students.

The "strike" proved to be short-lived after George Thornburg, president of the board of education, said that a public hearing would be granted Ertz and that he would dismiss Frank Shepherd, the youth whose confession to burglaries implicated Ertz, until the trouble was settled.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 16.—Four hundred high school pupils were on strike here today, and parading the town's principal streets, following the forced resignation of J. H.

Ertz, principal, last Saturday when he was charged with a number of petty burglaries.

The demonstration held up traffic on the National highway this morning and several deputy sheriffs were kept busy diverting motorists through side streets. The students were accompanied by the high school band and the paraders carried banners, the common slogan reading "We Want Ertz," and "We Want Justice."

Fifteen members of the faculty have announced that they are in sympathy with the portest and have adopted a resolution to this effect. Only 12 students refused to join the "strike."

The affair originated last Friday night when a student, the president of the sophomore class, was taken into custody while he is alleged to have been burglarizing the home of W. J. Walker, an attorney. The student, "Jimmy," a rear window. (Continued on Page 8, Column 2)

ROY B. VEIOCK TRAPPED WHEN SEDAN PLUNGES FROM HIGHWAY

New Brighton Man State Line Accident Victim.

MISSED BRIDGE

Body Found in Front Seat of Submerged Car.

Believed to have plunged from the road while approaching the vehicle bridge in Smith's Ferry, Pa., late Saturday night, Roy B. Veiock, 44, music store proprietor of 818 Third street, New Brighton, was found dead at the wheel of his submerged sedan in Beaver creek at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Patrolman Finds Body.

Veiock was last seen alive shortly before he left his store to make a call in Midland. Patrolman Harry Kleeen Midland, and a Shippingport constable, searching for a stolen automobile, discovered the wheels of Veiock's overturned sedan showing above the surface of the water near the east bank of the creek Sunday morning. The victim, with one leg wrapped around the steering wheel post was found inside the machine when it was pulled from the water.

Dr. Harry C. McCarter, Beaver county coroner, who conducted an inquest at the Dennis mortuary, Midland, late yesterday afternoon rendered a verdict of "accidental drowning." Ira Velock, brother of the victim, who came here yesterday afternoon to see his brother, said that he had left his brother's store at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, when his brother told him to "go on up to the house," as he had a call to make in Midland.

Attempted to Free Himself. Police believe that Veiock, descending the grade leading to the vehicle bridge at Smith's Ferry, mistook the abutment on the right side for the left side of the span. His car plunged through an opening in the guard rail fence and down a 40-foot declivity into the creek. Veiock's watch stopped at 11:15 o'clock, and this is taken by friends to be the time when the accident occurred.

The machine in its plunge, overturned and landed on its top. The windshield was smashed and the glass in the doors broken. The position of Veiock's body indicated that he had attempted to free himself.

Man's Wallet Missing. McElravy Brothers wrecker from this city was called and also the pullmotor from the Central fire station. D. D. Dennis, Midland funeral director, assisted in removing the victim from the machine.

Veiock's body was taken to the Dennis morgue where the man's identity was established through letters found in his pockets.

Ira Veiock and the widow of the victim came to East Liverpool yesterday after conferring with Midland police.

Ira Veiock declared that it had been customary for his brother to bring (Continued on Page Eight, Col. Seven)

FAIRBANKS HIT AT AMERICAN

Peace and violence are at war in Douglas Fairbanks as "The Gaucho" the new United Artists production now at the American theatre.

The forces of evil are abetted by four husky villains, not all on the same side of the fence. Michael Vavitch, the commandante, a Montenegro by birth, depicts the bold, blustering type of villain. Gustav von Seyffertitz is an Austrian who portrays the dictator, a cold, relentless type.

Charley Stevens, an Apache Indian, is the bandit lieutenant, and as such represents all that is crafty and treacherous. Fred de Silva, a Portuguese, takes the part of a drunken cavalry officer, brutal and cowardly.

Out of camera range these terrible gentlemen are sufficiently meek an orderly to render Carrie Jacobs Bond's "Sing Me to Sleep," a little off key in spots, but not too spotted.

But there's still another villain. Doug himself, who enacts the superb bandit. Doug escapes the anathema of the Gaucho gods by deeds of valor and a sense of humor. Having a charming life he dodges knife-thrusts, plagues, cells and scaffolds, and shows why ordinary villains deserve all they get. And Doug sees that they get it!

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

Dr. Caldwell M.D. AT AGE 83

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxative, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild, laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

MELLON WILL QUIT IN 1929

Secretary of Treasury Tired and Wants to Rest.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon has revealed to confidants that he will retire from public life at the end of his present cabinet term next March—irrespective of anything that may happen politically in November. He is tired and wants a rest.

Mellon has confided to close friends his desire to get away from the actual conduct of public affairs. Reports have persisted that he would not accept the treasury post should the Republicans remain in power, but authoritative information concerning his attitude heretofore has been guarded closely.

There is no probability, however, that Mellon will fade out of the foreground in the Republican political picture. Only a few weeks ago he said that foremost in his mind was the Republican national convention at Kansas City.

"What are your plans for the summer?" Mellon was asked. "The Kansas City convention—after that I have no definite plans," Mellon replied.

In the face of almost constant sniping by political enemies on Capital Hill and of constant bombardment from radical prohibitionists, Mellon, serene, smiling—has withstood all attacks with rarely a show of irritation. A little man behind a big desk, courteous, patient, unruffled by criticism.

English College Students Played By Authorities

CAMBRIDGE, Eng.—The conduct of the undergraduates of Cambridge university is the subject of severe criticism by the local authorities of this town.

The question was raised at a town council meeting for the first time in decades, when charges were made that the students "used bad language at places of amusement and created disorder in the streets."

The indictment was not directed against the undergraduate body as a whole, but "against a small group, whose actions have gotten out of control."

New Field Opened For Physicians in Cancer Treatment

LONDON.—The curing of a cancer patient by an accidental overdose of radium, described by A. E. Hayward Pinch, director of the Radium Institute, is believed by physicians here to have opened up a new field of investigation in the campaign against the disease.

In reply to Sid Edward Gauvain, who asked a question concerning the dangers incurred in using radium, Pinch told the story of a patient who was cured by an overdose.

"The patient," he said, "was ordered a 100 mg. tube of radium for 24 hours. By an error, a second 25 hours dose was given, and the growth absolutely and completely disappeared."

Such a dose, the speaker added, would not have been given deliberately.

British Club Bans Knife and Fork at Monthly Banquets

WALSALL.—There is a club here that bans knives and forks. "Fingers only" is the rule at table. Women are not allowed to join.

"The Finger Club" holds a monthly supper at which the menu usually consists of sausages, jellies, pickled onions, bread and cheese, all of which have to be devoured with the aid of the fingers only. The use of a knife carries the penalty of drinks all around.

A levy is laid on each member at each meeting for some local charity and this is the chief reason for the club's existence. The membership is large.

Pittsburgh Sets New Age Limits For Cops, Firemen

PITTSBURGH.—The minimum age for those seeking jobs in Pittsburgh's uniformed police service is now 22, while the maximum is 35, according to a ruling made recently. Age limits for firemen will be slightly lower but will follow the same general tendency.

Holding that youths of 21 are immature and unsuited either physically or mentally for police work, several officials favored establishing a minimum age of 25, but this step was believed to be too radical and a compromise age of 23 was agreed upon.

"Wash Dishes to Keep Hands Nice" Beauty Expert Advises Girls

Girls, perhaps you hate doing the dishes. Listen to what Miss Susan Breslin, teacher in a famous New York beauty school, says — "Washing dishes makes beautiful hands — provided it is done with pure Lux suds."

Miss Breslin explains that "the very thorough gentle cleansing that one gets from Lux suds is excellent for the skin." She adds:

"However, the good effect of this thorough cleansing is lost and much harm done, if ordinary household soap is used. Such soaps often contain harmful alkalis, which dry up the oils of the skin, leading to wrinkles and coarsening of texture."

"Lux is so mild that it protects the skin oils and soothes the skin."

"My students are trained to use Lux suds in manicuring the nails, and the home woman will find that

Miss Susan Breslin

after doing dishes with Lux, her nails and hands look lovely.

"There are few beauty secrets so easy and inexpensive to follow and few that give such wonderful results as the use of Lux for dishes."

District Orator

A 17-year-old girl will represent the East Liverpool-Wellsville-Sallenville-Lisbon high school district in the Ohio finals of the international oratorical contest.

Miss Marjorie Hall, senior in the Ceramic City school, competing against three boys—Michael Rubino, 17, Lisbon; Lloyd Lange, 16, Sallenville, and C. Richard Ginder, 13, Wellsville—was declared the winner in the contest held here Friday night.

The decision, voted by three judges—W. F. Lones, Wellsville, Columbiana county common pleas court jurist; Dr. Warren O. Hawkins, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, East Liverpool, and A. L. Rabenstein, superintendent of the Chester (W. Va.) schools, carries with it the right to compete against the champion orators of Marion, Steubenville, Salem and Canton in the state meet in the Stark county metropolis on Friday evening, April 27.

The subject in the state finals, winner of which will represent Ohio in a zone contest to be held in Troy, N. Y., in May, will be based on the United States constitution which also was the topic in the district event. The purpose is to encourage study of the foundation stone on which the American government is built, and thus make us better citizens.

Miss Hall is a capable representative of the southern Columbiana county schools, and deserves the honor that has been accorded her.

Memorial To Columbus

A lighthouse as a memorial to Christopher Columbus is being planned for the harbor of Santo Domingo. When he was in Santo Domingo recently Col. Charles A. Lindbergh placed a wreath on the tomb which Dominicans assert is the resting place of the bones of the great discoverer.

But were Col. Lindbergh to fly to the several places in the world which are said to be the resting place of the bones of Christopher Columbus, he would make a longer flight than was the case on his famous trip across the Atlantic.

The body, supposedly, has been buried five different times, and both Spain and Santo Domingo now claim possession of the navigator's bones, says the National Geographic society in a bulletin out of Washington.

It is a matter of undigested record that Columbus died, broken-hearted and penniless, in Valladolid, Spain, in 1506, and was buried in that inland town. Later, his body was removed to Seville and buried with that of his famous son, Diego.

This was a more fitting burial place for Columbus, for Seville was one of the seats of Ferdinand and Isabella, and had witnessed his triumphs when he returned from the discovery of America in 1493.

But within a short time the bones of the navigator became as restless as his body had been. In 1549 the remains of the great admiral again crossed the Atlantic, over much the same route that he had blazed in 1492. He had expressed the wish that his body might lie in Santo Domingo City, and there it was taken, with the body of Diego, who had ruled regally in that first city of the New World founded by Europeans.

For the ensuing two and a half centuries there was no thought of removing the bones of Columbus, but in 1795 Spain had to give way to France in Santo Domingo. Before the transfer of sovereignty, the Spanish authorities dug up what they thought were the bodies of Christopher and Diego Columbus, and moved them to the cathedral in Havana, Cuba.

Once again revolution and war intervened. When Cuba became an independent nation as a result of the Spanish-American war, the supposed remains of Columbus were taken back across the Atlantic and deposited in the cathedral at Seville.

The Dominicans do not believe that the body of Columbus was ever removed from the cathedral in Santo Domingo City, where it was placed in 1549. They assert that those detailed to exhume the body made a mistake and took, instead of the great explorer, the body of his son or his brother.

This error, they explain in Santo Domingo, was not revealed until 1877, when, in making repairs on the cathedral, workmen found another vault containing a casket. On this casket were inscriptions which have led investigators to accept the view that the bones of Columbus still rest in the New York.

U. S. Treasurer Resigns

In the lower right hand corner of practically all the paper money now in use in the United States there appears the signature of Frank White, treasurer of the United States.

Very few people, however, take the time to see what is printed on their paper money, except its denomination, and for this reason it is quite likely not one in ten could tell, off-hand, who is Uncle Sam's treasurer.

Now Mr. White has resigned his post, effective May 1, to go into business in Chattanooga, Tenn. But the paper money with his name on it still will be worth its face value.

Frank White is a North Dakotan. He has been treasurer of the United States for the last seven years, having been appointed by President Harding. He is a veteran of the World war, was organizer of the Second North Dakota infantry, and served as chief of requisitions and claims for the A. E. F.

Now, at the age of 71 years, Mr. White is retiring from a federal post, the duties of which are not at all arduous, to assume the presidency of a mortgage corporation. At the age when many men are thinking of getting out of business, Frank White is keen to get into business. And he predicts a great future for the southern half of the United States.

Nowadays, men whose age is well beyond the so-called allotment of three score and ten, are stepping from one business into another with all of the zest of a 21-year-old—and getting away with it. Youth may be served as the saying is, but youth certainly has to watch its step if it doesn't want some of the old timers to get in there ahead of it and secure all the plums.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15.—Although nearly a year has elapsed since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh flew his airplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, from New York to Paris, carrying letters of introduction, his popularity has increased rather than waned. Many tremendous exploits have electrified the world, but none which has had so lasting an effect on its hero as the Lindbergh flight.

The phrase "a nine days wonder" was a well chosen one until the intrepid lad winged alone across the ocean. There had been scarcely an event of modern times which continued to keep millions of people on tiptoe with excitement for more than nine days. Usually about twenty-four hours proved enough to take the edge off a steamship disaster, a great train wreck, or an earthquake. Even the most tremendous battles of the Great War not more than nine days wonders.

But the people are still talking about Col. Lindbergh. It is true that he has held up in a remarkable manner. His flight to Mexico City from Washington was a wonder in itself. A flight perhaps as dangerous as that across the Atlantic was the one he made to Bogota, the capital city of Colombia. Here he had to mount into the clouds and find a hidden city at a tremendous altitude. But it appears that there can be a surfeit of fame. A modest youth in the first place, intent chiefly upon achieving each successive goal and proving to the world that aviation is practicable under even the most forbidding circumstances, he is now eager for the adulation heaped upon him by the world.

His difficulty is that, just as his achievements in the air pile up one upon the other, his popularity accumulates and the legend of Lindbergh grows rather than diminishes.

Col. Lindbergh is a human being like the rest of mankind so far as ordinary, routine needs are concerned. Although he wings through the air like a god, he is human, he eats food and wears clothes. If it were not for the fact that his substantial contribution to the art of flying had brought him considerable wealth he might occasionally wonder how long he could continue to do so.

It seems there is no point at which souvenir hunters will stop. This may seem incredible to the average layman but it is true. When Col. Lindbergh sends clothing to the laundry, it never comes back. He has attempted repeatedly to have his clothes laundered at public laundries, but either the receiving clerks at the desk, the wagon drivers, the washing machine operators, the ironers, or somebody else in the laundry establishment seize upon the garments and retain them as souvenirs. The man who scorned the Atlantic beneath his feet can not get so much as a sock back from the laundry.

He tried several laundries and in each case had the same experience. Attempts were made to get his laundry done under other names—names of friends and servants. All with the same result. Not a stitch ever comes back. Col. Lindbergh must continually supply himself with new linen.

Col. Lindbergh thought that the fever would be over after people had stripped pieces of canvas from his plane with penknives and otherwise tampered with it in a search for relics. But it continues and seems to be rising. Recently it was rumored that the Colonel would attempt to fly the Pacific. If he does so it is a question whether the flight will be made in the interests of aviation or to get away from the souvenir hunters.

It seems likely that soon there will be as many posers of Lindbergh relics in the country as there are G. A. R. veterans who have canes made from boughs cut from the apple tree under which Gen. Lee surrendered at Appomattox.

Q. How long can motion picture negatives be kept?

E. E. A. It is certain that a negative will last at least thirty years, for there is in existence now the original motion picture of the inauguration of President McKinley, in 1897, and from that negative perfectly good copies can be made today. There are motion pictures of all our Presidents since that time, carefully stored. There are wonderful pictures of the part we played in the World war and of other recent events in our history. Scientists and film experts hazard the opinion that a roll of negative film, kept in a proper temperature and at a certain degree of humidity, or moisture, might be preserved for 200 or 300 years, or perhaps indefinitely. But only time will answer the question accurately.

Q. Have homing pigeons any great endurance? A. V. G.

A. One case of supreme endurance was noted on October 21, 1918, in which a homing pigeon was liberated with an important message at Grand Pre at 2:35 p. m. during intense machine-gun and artillery action. This bird delivered its message to the loft at Rampant, a distance of 244 miles, in 25 minutes. One leg had been shot off and the breast had been injured by a machine-gun bullet, but even under these conditions the bird delivered its message.

Q. When was the willow ware china first made?

A. M. P. A. The willow pattern appeared about 1780 and dimmedly became popular.

A. According to statistics of the Bureau of Public Roads, the State of Illinois has the greatest mileage of portland cement concrete highways with 5361 miles.

Q. How many strawberries does Louisiana produce, and when does the picking season begin? P. S. C.

A. Strawberry production in Louisiana during 1927 was 16,711,000 quarts. The forecast for 1928 is 36,749,000 quarts. The picking season starts in March but the peak is during the months of April and May.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, April 15.—Diary of a day in the city of the modern Peppys: To breakfast with the thoughtfulness touched her there was discussion of people who talked to themselves and all present admitted, the falling, indeed in other days impudent bar tenders of the night before were conversationally linked by most of us in the next morning bath.

To talk to Pat Casey, who wrote "Wine, Women and War" anonymously and did a good job of it, too. Talked, also, to a navigation expert, who told a hair-raising tale of a great ocean liner coming within a few inches of turning turtle on a maiden voyage several years ago.

In the evening to dinner with Eva Steinmetz and Otis Raiston and we had a pullet cooked in fruits, timbales of new asparagus and a stewed pear covered with a delicious plukish sauce. Then to the Dutch Treat Show and thought it dull; so home to bed.

One of the novelties of apartment entertaining is expressed in a progressive motion picture idea. Guests are shown movies of those who visited the apartment before and then the guests present are filmed and added to the reel for the next visitors.

A rich man has a treat in store for his year-old son. He has had a movie-taken of the youngster every month and hopes to continue it until the child reaches maturity. Then the high lights may be unfolded on the screen.

A mysterious visitor to a Madison avenue florist ordered a $10 supply of flowers sent anonymously to a lady during his eighteen months globe-trotting journey. He left $5,475 in cash without giving his name. "We met but once," he explained, "and she would not remember me. I simply admire her more than any lady I ever saw." Proof enough!

Such secret sentiment is not uncommon to florists. There is an actress, now retired, who during seven years of her stage career in New York and on tour received a single rose daily from an admirer whose

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copland.

Many mothers write to me asking why their babies do not develop as they should. They are disturbed because something has interfered with normal growth.

Probably the most important factor in this connection is wrong feeding. Improper foods, overfeeding and underfeeding are among the common causes for delayed development. There may be no actual disease, but the child is at a standstill—there is no increase in growth or weight.

Too many persons forget that it is just as necessary for little babies to have fresh air as it is for an adult. You can't put a baby in a clothes basket and locate that in some corner of the room, disregarding the oxygen needs of the infant. Of course I would not want you to expose the baby to a draft of cold air, or to expose it to cold of any sort. But the child must be kept in a room that is freely ventilated.

All you have to do to cause the baby to fade in health is to give it unhygienic surroundings. Dust, dirt and filth will undermine the health and prospects of the baby.

Just because a baby is little and cannot tell you what is wrong is no reason for thinking that uncomfortable conditions do not wear upon its nerves and health. It cannot be left wet and soiled habitually without having bad symptoms in consequence. Noises, bright lights and every factor that disturbs grown people will annoy and disturb a baby.

A young infant sleeps most of the time. On this account disturbed and restless sleep and sleeplessness must cause the mother some anxiety. Indigestion and anger are the most frequent causes for disturbed sleep.

I need not tell you that the indigestion usually comes from over feeding or giving the wrong kind of food. A child may cry out in its sleep because of a pain of colic.

Of course, there are other kinds of pain than that which comes from the digestive organs. Lots of times there is found to be a trouble with the ear. The earache causes agonizing pain in little folks as it does in grown up people. The child wakes up at night with a start and lets out a terrible yell.

It rarely happens that an earache comes on without some previous warning. There is discharge from the nose and slight elevation of temperature. On account of the stoppage of the nose the infant does not nurse readily. A little later comes the disturbed sleep which I have described.

Repeated colds, frequent attacks of earache, indigestion—all these are factors in lowering the vitality of the child. In consequence, development is delayed. Weight and growth do not increase as they should.

"Wash Dishes to Keep Hands Nice" Beauty Expert Advises Girls

Girls, perhaps you hate doing the dishes. Listen to what Miss Susan Breslin, teacher in a famous New York beauty school, says—

"Washing dishes makes beautiful hands—provided it is done with pure Lux suds."

Miss Breslin explains that "the very thorough gentle cleansing that one gets from Lux suds is excellent for the skin." She adds:

"However, the good effect of this thorough cleansing is lost and much harm done, if ordinary household soap is used. Such soaps often contain harmful alkalis, which dry up the oils of the skin, leading to wrinkles and coarsening of texture."

"Lux is so mild that it protects the skin oils and soothes the skin."

"My students are trained to use Lux suds in manicuring the nails, and the home woman will find that

Miss Susan Breslin

after doing dishes with Lux, her nails and hands look lovely.

"There are few beauty secrets so easy and inexpensive to follow and few that give such wonderful results as the use of Lux for dishes."

Ancient Statue of King Discovered in London Garden

LONDON—A stone statue of a king, believed to be more than 500 years old, and to have once stood in a niche in Westminster Cathedral, has been discovered in the back garden of a house in a London suburb. The statue was half-buried in a heap of rubbish. It is about five feet in height, and is that of a bearded king, crowned, and holding in his left hand an orb.

The occupier of the house said he got the statue in a lot of rubbish he obtained from Westminster.

"I cannot understand how it came to be classed as rubbish," an antiquarian declared. "Indications are that the statue stood on the north porch of Westminster Hall, which was built by order of Richard II, in 1395."

Ohio's Opportunity

The next president of the United States will be nominated at the Kansas City Republican National Convention. Ohio has the opportunity of helping to select that candidate, if an uninstructed delegation is sent to the Convention. The Willis delegates, if elected, will not be tied to any candidate. They will be an uninstructed delegation, free from any pledge except to the Republican voters of Ohio. They will be as judges to help determine and nominate that Republican who will make the best president for all the people and who will be most certain of election in November. The Willis delegates will have a wealth of qualified material from which to select that candidate, Calvin Coolidge, Charles Evan Hughes, Charles G. Dawes, Herbert Hoover, Frank O. Lowden, Charles Curtis, or some Republican not yet considered. The Hoover delegates are pledged to one candidate and this is their weakness. If the Willis delegates do not win, will Mrs. Wilma Sinclair LeVan be re-elected a national committeewoman?

SURVEY MADE FOR NEW DOMESTIC GAS LINE IN WELLSVILLE

STEPS TAKEN AGAINST BREAK IN CITY FUEL

Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company Acts.

TAP RIVER MAIN

Plan to Eliminate all Chance Against Supply.

Preliminary survey for the construction of a new domestic gas supply line through the city is being made in Wellsville by officials and engineers of the Manufacturers' Light & Heat company.

The object of the new supply line will be the prevention, as far as possible, of repetitions of the break that occurred here recently, cutting off the city's gas supply for approximately 24 hours.

Cognizant of the fact that such a break, occurring in the dead of winter, would cause untold suffering among people dependent upon the supply for heat and cooking, the gas company will seek to eliminate all chance, so far as is consistent, of further trouble.

According to tentative plans the gas company will discount the city's supply line from the main that follows the river bed past the city and tap on to the main line that crosses the river near the American Sheet & Tin Plate plant and extends on up over the hill to Lisbon. This is what is known as the high pressure line.

The proposed city gas line would then extend past the mill and on down to Third street, using the best available route, and then, possibly, be shunted around on one of the back streets to the west end.

ARRANGE EXAMS FOR CITY JOBS

Commission to Hold Session Here Thursday.

City officials today announced plans for holding a civil service examination for patrolmen and patrol drivers on next Thursday evening at city hall.

One vacancy at present exists in the ranks at the fire station, caused by the resignation sometime ago of M. L. Hickman.

Although an examination was held by the civil service commission recently no available candidates were produced.

"Scarcity of suitable men," said Mayor W. L. Fogo today, "may be attributed in some degree to the fact that the job pays only $115 monthly for fire station duty. At the same time the city desires responsible men for these posts, especially in view of the fact that they must handle a $12,500 piece of fire fighting machinery. In addition they are vested with police powers and are called upon to perform other duties of a similar nature regularly."

KIWANIS TO MEET WITH GRANGERS

Wellsville Kiwanis club members will hold a joint meeting tomorrow night with Yellow Creek Grange members in the grange hall in the Lisbon.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. A speaker from the Ohio Federation of Good Roads will give the chief address.

State Department Makes Stand in Petroleum War

Foreign Attempts to Grab World's Supply of Petroleum

There should be no doubt in the minds of the American public that the Government at Washington is aware of the efforts of the Royal Dutch Shell Company, supported by the British Government, to corner the oil supply of the world outside the United States and exclude American companies from participation in these supplies.

The most striking example of this policy is in the bitter conflict with regard to Russian oil.

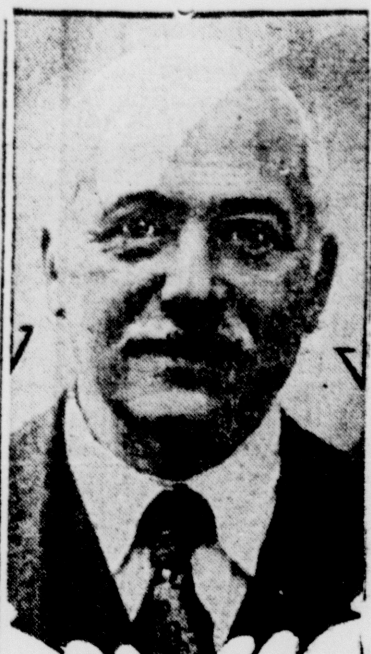

All well-informed Government officials know the Russian oil fields are potentially capable of a production second to the United States alone.

The State Department is not deceived by the cry that the Russian oil purchased by the American companies is "stolen oil."

Enraged by the American competition Sir Henri Deterding last September unleashed a price war in oil products in India, in which secret rebates were a feature.

The losses of Royal Dutch have been approximately three times as heavy as those of American companies. Sir Henri now purposes to have the Indian Government put a tariff on imported oil. This discrimination, aimed solely at American competition, would leave the field to him.

Every department of the Government attempting to protect the interest of American oil companies runs up against the close connection between the British Government and the Royal Dutch Shell Company. Sir Henri Deterding was knighted by the British Government for his services to the Empire during the war. Nominally, he is a Hollander. He has eighty-two thousand British stockholders on his books.

The State Department is by no means ignorant of the fact that in stiffening the back of American companies against Royal Dutch Shell it is up against the British Government itself. The department, however, feels that a strong American stand is justified, not only in the interest of a decent protection of American corporations but in the interest of the United States in acquiring an adequate supplemental oil reserve against the day when our own oil shall be gone

May Act on Pay Boost For Police-Firemen

Wage Increase Legislation Scheduled for Councilmanic Discussion Tuesday.

Definite action on the proposed salary raise for Wellsville policemen and firemen may be taken at tomorrow night's meeting of city council here, it was indicated today.

Legislation already introduced in council would give patrolmen a pay boost of $15 from $130 to $145, and firemen a raise of $15 from $115 to $130.

Solons have discussed the legislation on several occasions up until the present time but have failed to act definitely, chiefly on account of present lack of funds.

For several meetings it has been tabled, being slated for reappearance again tomorrow night.

For 18 years he had been employed as a section foreman for the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company. He is survived by two children, Leonard, Jr., and Mrs. Salvatore Tomaine, of Wellsville; two brothers and a sister in Italy; and a brother in Alliance.

RECOVER STOLEN BIKE; BOY BLAMED

Mayor W. L. Fogo and Chief of Police John Fultz recovered a bicycle, belonging to Joseph Duty, Ninth street, postoffice worker, which has been missing for three months.

Carl Williams, wanted here on a forgery charge, is also accused of having stolen the bicycle.

Driving along Wells avenue yesterday, the mayor and the chief saw the bicycle and stopped. They questioned a boy who told the authorities that Williams had given the bicycle to him several months ago.

Williams at that time was boarding at a home in Wells avenue. Coming home one day, he told the boy, according to the latter's story, that he had hidden the bicycle up the East Liverpool road to a point near Brady's and had left it there. He told the lad that the latter could have it if he went after it. This the boy did.

EDWARD ROBINSON, AGED 39, IS DEAD

Edward Robinson, 39 years old, died Sunday morning at his home in Clark avenue after a three month illness.

He was born in Asheville, N. C. During the World war he served with the A. E. F. in France. He was a member of Dalton post of the American Legion, and prior to his illness, was employed at the McLain Fire Brick Co.

Funeral services will be held at Haugh's funeral home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in charge of Rev. I. A. Brown, pastor of the A. M. E. church, assisted by Rev. W. B. Woodson. Interment will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

'FIRESIDE' MEET IN HONOR OF 'DAD'

Organ selections by M. Kelbaugh, Washington, D. C., musician, and the weekly "fireside" program featured services Sunday evening in the First Christian church here.

The third of the "fireside service" features was dedicated to "father." Miss Lois Rhuark gave two readings, "Shabby Old Dad" and "Tis a Little Journey." Miss Nova Clendenning, accompanied by Miss Martha McClelland, sang, "Praise to Dad." Several poems appropriate to the occasion were read by Rev. Young, pastor, in introducing his sermon on "Our Father's God."

At the morning service Rev. Young discussed "The Man Who Forgot," meaning the chief butler who forgot Joseph and left him in prison when he might have interceded for him with the king and procured his release. He then showed how the church is God's greatest means of calling people's attention to their duty to Him and to one another. He urged that everyone follow the butler's example when later he "remembered," and to keep in remembrance their duty to God, to Jesus Christ and to His church.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear Son and Brother, Raymond Fickes, who departed this life one year ago April 15. Just a thought of sweet remembrance, Just a memory fond and true, Just a token of affection, How our hearts still ache for you. Just a sigh of golden moments, Just a sigh of love anew, Just a tear in silence falling, And a yearning just for you. Tonight the stars are gleaming Upon a lonely grave, There sleepeth without dreaming One we loved but could not save. All is sad within our dwelling, Lonely are our hearts today, For the one who was always cheerful, Has forever passed away. More and more each day we miss you, Friends may think the wound is healed, But little do they know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed. Sadly missed by Father and Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

ONCE BELLBOY Began Career Firing "Glory Hole" in Glass Factory.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Ellsworth M. Statler, veteran hotel man, the head of the Statler chain of hotels, died this morning. Executives of the Pennsylvania hotel confirmed reports of his death, but refused details.

Milton Statler, 23-year-old adopted son of the hotel man, was in seclusion at his apartment and refused to speak.

Statler, "grand old man of the hotel profession," owned more hotels than any other man in the world.

The 65-year-old magnate returned only two weeks ago from Florida, where he had spent the winter, and immediately contracted cold which developed into intestinal influenza. A turn for the worse followed Saturday and pneumonia developed.

Statler was born in Somerset county, Pennsylvania, in October 1863. He began his extraordinary career firing a "glory hole" in a glass factory, when he was but nine years old.

At twelve Statler became a bell-boy in the McClure House in Wheeling, W. Va., where he laid the foundation for his knowledge of the hotel business.

Under questioning, the boy is said to have confessed to this and several other burglaries and implicated a number of other students and friends. Most of these were minor thefts, such as picking up candy while passing the counters of confectioneries, he said. Erts is said to have admitted, Saturday, that the charges were true, stating that he and student friends had committed the larcenies in a spirit of play.

The board of education then asked Erts to resign and he complied late Saturday. The youth under arrest is said to have charged that his thievery was inspired by Erts.

Erts, though he had only been here one term, is quite popular, and a spirit of protest against the board of education's action ruled the student body over the week-end. Erts formerly taught at Granville and was a student at Denison college.

The board of education was in session today considering further action. Several members are said to favor expulsion of these students who continue their

Three Persons Hurt In Auto-Truck Crash

Paul Jordan and Wife and L. A. Finley are Cut in Collision in Penn Avenue.

Three persons were injured in a head-on collision between a Chevrolet coupe, owned and driven by L. A. Finley, Wellsville, and a truck owned by the Crocker City Ice & Products company near the East Liverpool Oil & Gas company's filling station, Pennsylvania avenue, at 4 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mrs. Nell Jordan, Eleventh street, Wellsville, a passenger in the Finley car sustained a gash in her head which required eight inches to close. Her husband, Paul Jordan, suffered bruises to his face and head and was also injured on the chest. Finley, driver of the car and brother of Mrs. Jordan, sustained minor bruises. Harry Bishop, driver of the truck, was not hurt.

Bishop was enroute to East End with a load of bottled milk while Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were enroute to Wellsville for early mass at the Catholic church when the crash occurred.

Finley was arrested by Patrolman Borger and Lister, charged with reckless driving and upon arraignment before Municipal Judge Hanley this morning pleaded not guilty. He was released on bond for a hearing on April 24.

McElravy Brothers wrecker was called to take charge of the cars. The injured were taken to their homes in another machine. Dr. W. N. Bailey, attended them.

Three Other Accidents
G. M. Ellison escaped unhurt when his Ford coupe overturned on the street car tracks near the Maplewood grocery, St. Clair avenue, at 8:15 o'clock Saturday night. The accident occurred when Ellison is said to have swerved his car to avert striking a pedestrian.

A sedan, owned by R. L. Marchand, representative of the Commercial Credit company, Cleveland, plunged over an embankment on the Long's Run hill, north of Stop 55 late Saturday night but the driver was not hurt. The machine, which was slightly damaged, remained upright and was brought back to East Liverpool after being pulled onto the road. Marchand said his light went out while he was going down the hill and before he could stop the car he had left the highway.

Miss Frances Soule, Montgomery avenue, damaged her Maxwell coupe when she crashed into a truck owned by The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Tractor company, parked in the Wellsville road near Walkers Saturday afternoon. After striking the truck her machine swerved to the other side of the road, causing a second crash with a Ford car coming in the opposite direction. Name of the driver of the Ford was not learned.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 16.—With few exceptions the unsettlement noted in the industrial stocks at Saturday's close was carried into the early trading in the big board today, and prices settled down to a lower level. General Motors, Mack Trucks, U. S. Steel, Nash, Texas Gulf Sulphur and other speculative leaders lost from one to three points on fairly heavy offerings. The rails and oils were firm.

Firming up of the gasoline markets on the eve of the heaviest consuming season stimulated better buying of the oil shares. Marland, Sinclair and Atlantic Refining are persistently linked together in merger talk. Tidewater, new, was the feature of the low-priced oils, with a 1 1/2 point advance to 20 in heavy trading. Standard Oil of New Jersey was well bought above 42. General Electric and the New York city traction stocks continued to move up impressively.

The call loan rate was marked up to 5 per cent, against Saturday's final rate of 4 1/2 per cent. Coincident with the firming up of call money, here has been a considerable expansion in commercial loans.

United States Steel broke to below 148 in the second hour as selling pressure developed against this and other active stocks. General Motors lost three points in the same period, and the reaction spread to a number of the well known industrial, motor and railroad favorites.

'KING OF KINGS' HERE TONIGHT

Biblical Picture Opens Three-day Engagement.

A beautiful Easter garden containing a rock-cut tomb constitutes the scene wherein Cecil B. DeMille, the maker of "The King of Kings," which opens a three-day engagement at the Ceramic theatre today with showings twice daily, following the sacred tradition, has placed the events of the Resurrection.

For many centuries learned controversy has been waged over the precise location—the consensus, however, pointing to "a garden adjoining the place Golgotha" beyond the western or northern wall. But whether or not the traditional Holy Sepulchre be the spot—in Jesus' day, without the walls, but now within the City—the beauty and newness of it when Jesus was laid there, are inferred from Scripture, and have been reproduced in the picture with a true vision of the glory of that first Easter.

The first ones who saw the risen Lord were Mary Mother and Mary Magdalene. They are depicted with flowers in their hands and with countenances shining with joy at the glad vision.

Preceding this beautiful culmination, the sealing of the tomb—the breaking of the ropes and seals by tremor—the rolling away of the stone—the Divine effulgence—the fright and flight of the watchers—the manifestation of the risen Jesus at the opening, are reverently depicted.

Events after the Resurrection and the Vision of the Two Marys are necessarily compacted to the Lord's manifestation before all of the Disciples. Perhaps the most touching and beautiful theme in sacred annals, this is filled with moments to inspire the highest artistry.

Egypt has started a government employment bureau to supply employees of Egyptian nationality to foreign companies operating there, in accordance with the law stipulating that 25 per cent of the staffs of such concerns must be Egyptians.

Walter is "smithy" For East Liverpool Automobile Owners

With human skill and knowledge in specialization to ever reaching onward and upward to new achievements, especially in the automotive line where progressive changes occur seemingly without end, the owner of an automobile today finds himself in possession of practically unlimited mechanical means for his comfort and convenience.

For whatever trouble that may afflict your machine there is a corresponding remedy. Specialization develops experts in the many various phases that contribute to the general field.

There are the motor experts, body specialists, electrical wizards and many others including the "auto smithy" who contributes his part in the general scheme.

H. C. Walter, East Liverpool's auto smithy, who does a general automobile blacksmithing work, has aided in prolonging the lives of many cars whose value otherwise might have been irreparably damaged.

His services are indispensable in the repairing and re-arching of springs, the straightening of axles, repairing of frames, cross members and similar work and the straightening of disc wheels.

Horger's, East End Headquarters for Hardware Supplies

Gentle zephyrs of spring, ushering in the annual spring house-cleaning sweepstakes, were sort of lost in the cold, blustery winter hang-over of the past few days but the housecleaning goes on just the same.

Have you any painting to do? Wall paper cleaning? Need new screening for doors or windows? Buckets, step-ladders, or anything in that general line?

One East End man says he'll check up all his wants, go to Horger's Hardware store there, make all his purchases at once and be ready to attend the Pirates' opening game at Pittsburgh on Thursday afternoon.

That is the easiest and undoubtedly the most satisfactory way to dispose of household purchases in the general line of hardware.

It is the aim at Horger's to give the best service possible and at all times to handle quality products which they feel sure will satisfy their patrons. And beside, Horger's establishment is willing to compare prices with similar goods elsewhere.

Satisfactory Work Is Always Standard At Davis Brothers

"Worthy of your patronage."

True in every respect this slogan may aptly be claimed by the Davis Brothers, of Chester, who in past years have endeavored to provide their patrons of the district a tire service, expert radio repairing, battery charging and similar aids that will deliver the utmost in satisfaction.

In this capacity the Davis Brothers fill an important role in the community's commercial sphere, the value of which is heightened to no small degree by their capability in their own particular field.

Their work has been especially outstanding in radio repairing and battery charging.

Many Chester radio fans have come to depend upon them for "first aid" in time of trouble as well as to administer to their needs in the battery line.

Their workmanship and service are marked throughout by courteous relations.

Same Fine Service At Your Command at Ohio Lunch Always

Ellis and George Markanton, co-proprietors of the Ohio Lunch, invite you to spend a few minutes of your time daily, and profitably, at their up-to-the-minute little restaurant in Washington street.

Having served sandwiches, short orders and other similar lunch wants to scores of patrons—men, women and children—daily for the past several years, the Ohio lunch and its products need little introduction, words of laudation doing little more than, to use the old simile, "gilding the lily."

The same fine service that you have obtained at this Washington street establishment day in and day out for the past week, month, year or whatever length of time you have been enjoying its delicacies, will be there to please you today and tomorrow and for as long as the present order of things exists.

Eliminating expensive overhead and fanciful extravagances that are not absolutely essential, the Ohio Lunch reflects its costs savings in reasonable prices.

The food and its service are the thing here. Quality is forever present and preparation and handling lacks nothing in cleanliness and sanitation, as well as skill in cooking, to make every order, no matter what its size, appealing and satisfactory.

Ward Motor Company Wrecker Service is Ready at All Hours

At the sign of the A. A. A.—that's the motorist's port in time of stress and storm, and a telephone line is the "life line" that brings him safely into the harbor "off the rocks."

There is an A. A. A. official garage near you always. In Chester it is Wolf's Central garage, at Sixth street and Carolina avenue. And you're never any farther away from their service and assistance than the nearest telephone.

An efficient wrecking service that goes practically anywhere, through which assistance is dispatched immediately to the stranded motorist wherever he may be, is available at the Ward garage, in its capacity as an A. A. A. unit, at any time of the day or night.

In addition, Ward operates a general garage service, repairing and servicing practically any make of machine.

Completely equipped, using only the best of material and labor in their repair work and other operations, the Ward garage is noted for dependable work in the automotive field and among the many automobile owners who have had occasion to seek its services.

Pennzoil Puts Pep In Lazy Motors; Buy It at Fisher's Here

Put Pennzoil oil and gasoline in your automobile this spring, this summer—forever. If you have not experienced the almost unbelievable pleasure of quick starting, speedy acceleration, an eagerness in your motor that is a delightful part of winter driving, with Pennzoil products as the chief contributing cause, go "round to one of their filling stations the next time your motor needs re-filling—and then notice the difference."

The Fisher Oil & Gas company, with two finely equipped stations, one in the downtown and the other in the East End, sell Pennzoil products here. And along with their sales of oil and gas goes a service that makes you want to go back again.

Suitably equipped greasing pits, a battery of air supply equipment, water and other appurtenances of the modern filling station indicates the desire of the company to provide a service to motorists that knows no superior.

Pennzoil Oil wards off, destructive friction. It cuts down wear and tear on your motor. It stands engine heat that quickly breaks down ordinary oils and makes them unsafe for use.

Major League Races Back To Normalcy As Bucs, Tigers Win

THEY'RE RINGING THE CURFEW AGAIN OVER POOR OLD TY

Ty Cobb.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
NEW YORK, April 16.—They are ringing the curfew on old Ty Cobb over in Philadelphia, which may be quite according to script with everybody except old Ty Cobb and the man who is paying him $30,000 to help him prove that this will be his last season in competition. However, the part that isn't in the act is the accompanying innuendo that George H. Ruth himself is no longer himself, if you will pardon my hangnail. He is alleged to have given unmistakable signs of slowing up in the field and on the bases. My understanding of the judgment on Ruth is that it originated with Miller Huggins, the latter being alleged to have popped off to the general effect quoted above while the Yankees were in St. Petersburg. It is to be hoped that the good Miller is responsible, for I note that several critics of baseball now have assumed the responsibility for discovering that Ruth has started toward an adjacent exit and, somehow, I always seem to have a cracked lip at critical junctures like that. It probably isn't good taste to argue an opinion of this kind with a man like Huggins, except to inquire just what magic he used in discovering that a player had slipped because of his performances in training camp. Therefore, are we to believe that Ruth showed Huggins he was beginning to go during the 1927 season or in the 1927 world series? If so, it must have been one of those private pre-views the movies go in for. Ruth seemed to be doing right well when they closed the books for the fiscal year in question. However, if Huggins said so, maybe it is so. This will be the only break in sight for the discerning critics, in case the great man blows himself to a big year. For, outside of practical baseball men, the ability to tell when a player has slipped is largely confined to those who are able to see them picking the poor fellow up out of the dirt and bearing him tenderly away. That, apparently, is what they are making ready to do with the great Cobb. Reports on his decadence are almost unanimous. One writer declared his opening day performance against the Yankees was "pitiful." Others referred to Cobb's efforts in a slightly more restrained way but left no doubt that they considered his days as a regular to be all over and done with. Another observer likened him to pagliacci, spoke of his appearance as "strangely old and grotesque," and deplored the fact that he had not retired "while there remained the unsullied memory of the Cobb that was."

Pirates Are Given Good Pitching to Trim Reds

Both New York Teams Continue to Win; Cleveland Suffers Initial Defeat at Hands of Detroiters.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, April 16.—With Pittsburgh and Detroit finally breaking into the win column, the two pennant races began to get back to normalcy today. These two clubs, rated as strong contenders in their respective leagues, got good pitching yesterday and may be counted upon to cause trouble from now on.

Poor twirling by their hurlers cost the champion Pirates their first three games, while the Tiger sluggers were stopped by unexpectedly effective pitching by the St. Louis mound staff. The Browns continue to be the sensation of both leagues, with a record of four victories and no defeats. Neither of the New York teams has lost a game. The Cleveland Indians suffered their first defeat of the season yesterday when Josh Billings, Detroit collegian, held them to five hits. Gehring drove in four runs and led his mates to an 8 to 2 triumph. O'Doul and Cohen, the two prize rookies of the New York Giants, each hit a home run as the Giants swamped the Phillies, 8 to 1, and remained at the top of the National league ladder. Dutch Henry made the Phils behave while his mates treated Jimmy Ring, ex-Giant, to a first class shellacking.

The St. Louis Cardinals nosed out the Cubs, 4 to 3, and held on to second place. Wee Willie Sherdel helped win his own game with a home run and Frank Frisch clouted a single, a triple and a homer, his third circuit clout of the season. Gabby Hartnett was the big noise for Chicago with three hits including a homer.

Grantham's double in the ninth gave Pittsburgh a 3 to 2 victory over the Reds. Dawson's pitching featured. Brooklyn nosed out Boston, 3 to 2, on Riconda's triple in the sixth. Young Willie Clark, of Sioux City and Brooklyn, shaded Dutch Brandt, west coast rookie, in a southern duel.

Sam Gray, ex-Philadelphia star, hung up his second victory of the season as the St. Louis Browns stymied the White Sox, 4 to 1.

Marberry of the Senators also turned in his second winning game, beating the Boston Red Sox by a 6 to 5 score. Goslin hit a homer. Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig each clouted a home run in an exhibition game with Baltimore, which the Yankees won, 5 to 2.

SPORT NEWS AND VIEWS

By the Sports Editor.

SEY WEICH, Akron's leading fight impresario, has just closed for Sandy Seifert, Pittsburgh heavyweight, to meet K. O. Christner, sensational knockout artist of Akron, for his show in the Rubber City on Friday night.

Without question, K. O. Christner is the greatest fistic attraction the Rubber City has had in its fight history. He has taken Akron by storm. His last two fights have been sell-outs, and—knock-outs. He dumped Romero-Rojas, the Chilean heavy, last week in the third-round of their scrap at the Canton auditorium, uncovering an attack that simply battered the big South American into submission. A number of East Liverpool fight followers attended the battle and branded Christner one of the most likely looking "comers" that have looked for a long time.

In meeting Seifert, however, the Akron phenom encounters the toughest opponent of his entire career. Seifert has an excellent record. He battled 10 hard rounds with Johnny Risko at Pittsburgh about a year ago. Risko got the decision on that occasion. The Pittsburgher has knocked out Thuy Jim Herman, Jimmy Madden, Joe Savage, Tom Lazuka, Stanley Smith, Frank Johns and John DeCosta.

Seifert has never been knocked out; in fact he boasts the reputation of never having been knocked down. Like Harry Greb, Seifert is a veritable windmill in action. He is nearly as fast as a lightweight, and throws plenty of leather. This fight sizes up as the real action test for Christner. For if the big Akron fellow can get over Seifert, he is undoubtedly big-league timber.

YOUNG Billy Wallace of Youngstown who scored two impressive victories in his two appearances in the Eagles' ring during the past winter, is coming back next Monday night and fans who saw and liked his work in his two previous scraps will welcome an opportunity to see him in action once more before the curtain goes down on boxing activities here.

Wallace is billed to tackle Jimmy Perry of Alliance in the six-round semifinal on next Monday night's card, and in Perry, he'll probably encounter a more hardy and more dangerous foe than he did in either of his two former scraps here. Wallace, however, is a cool specimen and carries a good defense. He does not "hurt" easily and has indicated that his punches carry steam. Jimmy Perry claims a victory over K. O. Sweeney, of Mingo Junction, in a recent fight there. But Sweeney, it seems, does not seem to recall that Perry ever won any fight from him and objects to the Alliance boy's claims.

THE Steve O'Malley-Teddy Welch bout that Matchmaker Tom McDonough tried to rig up for the Eagles' ring here some time ago will be fought tonight at Little Washington. This pair is scheduled to go on in the main bout. O'Malley, it will be remembered, was paired off with Welch here but was forced to cancel his appearance at the last minute on account of an injured hand he claimed he received in training. Sig Keppen the Beaver Falls boy, substituted for him on that occasion.

ALTHOUGH his average fell from .455 to .400, Paul Waner of the Pittsburgh Pirates was still leading the "Big Six" in hitting prior to today's games. Cobb, Ruth, Heilmann, Culyer and Hornsby follow in order.

A NUMBER of East Liverpool fight followers plan to take in the Zivic-Katish inter-stable scrap tonight at Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh. Latish was once Zivic's stablemate and sparring partner when the Pittsburgh boy was touching the heights of his career.

RED DAWSON pitched the first seven innings for the Bucs yesterday at Cincinnati, and aided by Carmen Hill, who went the last two frames, and Sparky Adams' hitting, turned in the Pirates' first win of the campaign, 3 to 2.

Adams, who had gone hitless the first three games, broke out with a rash of singles, clouting three to help the Pittsburgh victory.

ABE RUTH and Lou Gehrig both hit homers yesterday—but they didn't count in the American league standstill. Both were registered in an exhibition game with the Baltimore Orioles.

This Frank Frisch person, however, seems to be the real home run clouter at this stage of the game. He smashed out his third yesterday and got two other bingles, besides, to help the Cards wallop the Cubs, 4 to 3.

Stokes at Ft. Miami. TOLEDO, O.—Harry Stokes, the noted Springfield (O.) teamster, has arrived at the Ft. Miami track here with nine head of trotters and pacers. He expects to add several more performers before going after the money.

Soft Ball League to Organize

Managers to Hold Session Friday Night.

Plans for the re-organization of the Review recreation, or softball league, will be discussed at a meeting of last year's managers and new club prospects to be held on Friday night at the newspaper office.

The league operated successfully for the first time last year, its organization in 1927 marking the advent here of the popular recreation of play. The first league had a roster of 12 clubs, each carrying 15 players and a manager. It is doubtful though, whether a league of this size will be organized this year, most of the managers apparently preferring to operate in a smaller circuit. In this event, entries being sufficient, possibly two leagues would be formed.

The league will be ready to go immediately following organization this year, with rules, regulations and manner of play being worked out satisfactorily last season.

Cohen is Swinging Hefty Bat

Giants' Second Sacker Clouting at .583 Clip.

A NEW name appears among the batting elite of the National and American league clubs, who, by reason of their ability to swat the borschide far and frequently, are listed daily in that classification known as "leading hitters."

The upstart who has dared to match clout for clout with the Waners, the Cobbs, the Frischs, Speakers, Ruths and others who are wont to bat in the big figures is none other than Andy Cohen, the New York Giants' Jewish second baseman.

Andy, the figures show today, has taken part in three games. He faced opposition pitching 12 times and smacked out seven hits for a percentage of .583.

Frankie Frisch of St. Louis today tops the National loop swatters with nine hits in 14 times up, or a mark of .643.

George Grantham, Pittsburgh infielder, trails Frisch with a percentage of .600, accounted for by nine hits in 15 official times at bat. Cohen is third, followed by Purdy of Cincinnati and Sand of Philadelphia.

Joe Sewell of Cleveland tops the American Leaguers with a .500 mark, nine blows in 18 at bats. Hargrave, Detroit; K. Williams, Boston; and Rice and Bluege of Washington complete the quintet.

Stolen Idols

A Romance of the Sea
By Frank L. Packard.

The loosened piece of ivory came away in his hand now. It left an opening perhaps an inch wide by a quarter of an inch in depth, and inside, he could see, was a little wad of paper. He was excited now, feverishly so. Here was the secret of the thing at last—the solution to the happenings of that tragic night at Kalawa, the explanation of Chen-shu's thieving visit to Patua and his murderous efforts thereafter to recover the idol!

He took his knife from his pocket, and, with the point of the small blade, carefully prized over and over again until it was no more than a small pellet. It took him a moment to unfold the paper and smooth it out—and then, for his reward, bewilderment and dismay and discomfort came upon him. It undoubtedly represented all that he had told himself an instant ago that it would represent—but it was utterly meaningless to him. Quite uselessly he stared at the three lines of small ink-penned letters on the paper; and quite uselessly he tried to make some sense out of what he read:

otlingeoanvntwstxfwoinnntvwotitstfoottf

No good! A cipher, of course! Very clever of him to appreciate the fact that it was a cipher! All that was needed was exactly what he hadn't got—the key to it! A sudden new excitement surged upon him. The other idol! Did it need the other idol to complete the cipher? Was that why there were two of them? Was that it?

Bob Kingsley turned abruptly and walked back along the deck toward Verna, who was still standing near the companionway where he had left her.

"Well?" she demanded defiantly—and braced her shoulders resolutely as he approached. "I do not suppose my failure will in any degree mitigate my punishment. What is it to be?"

He stared at her. Excited because of the discovery he had just made, he had noticed until now that, in spite of her uncompromising attitude she looked white and miserable.

"Punishment?" He shook his head. And then impulsively: "I say! Won't you ever come to understand that no thought of anything but your safety, your welfare, yes, and I dare say this too, your happiness, ever has, or ever will enter my mind? There is no punishment. As a matter of fact, it was a jolly good thing, since luckily it didn't go overboard, that you flung the idol against the taffrail there. Otherwise I'd never have known that the thing wasn't solid, or twiggled the reason why the Chinamen, in whose existence you refuse to believe, were after it. Look here!" An eager flush came into his face. "See!"

She glanced but casually at the bits of ivory and the piece of paper in his hand—and then her eyes held on his face in a wondering, troubled, puzzled way.

"It's a cipher, of course," he went on, his excitement growing. "I haven't the faintest idea what it means. There are two of these idols. I suppose one has to have them both in order to get anywhere. And that accounts for a great deal."

Her eyes still held intently on his face.

"Do you mean to say you did not know what was in that idol, or how to open it, or what its secret was?" she asked in a low, quick way.

"Of course not!" he answered; and then with a mirthless little smile: "And I don't know now what it means. I wish I did!"

"I have been watching your face," she said almost under her breath, "and unless you are telling the truth and are a better actor than I give you credit for. This is the first thing you have ever said to me that I believe." "By Jove!" he exclaimed eagerly. "You mean that? Well, that's a lot! Look here! Can't we go ahead a bit on that basis?"

She shrugged her shoulders.

"It changes nothing," she said dully.

"Oh, yes, it does!" he countered quickly. "It's at least a bit of an opening wedge, and I'm going to make the most of it. I said to you that night in your cabin on the Monotah that if your brother had told you anything about the idol you must know I was not the man he was after, and your answer was that you knew exactly the contrary because you knew me to be Black Bob Kingsley who had been tried for another murder in Sarawak. But you did not say what your brother had told you. I think I'm entitled to the benefit of the doubt there in case he said nothing. I'd like to know about that; and I'd like to know how you recognized me from the first—for it was from the first, when we met in the Monotah's saloon just after I had come aboard at Tahola, that I felt sure you knew I was not the 'Mr. Moore' I pretended to be."

"My brother's duties took him to a great many places, and quite frequently I used to accompany him on his trips," she said indifferently. "We were in Sarawak at the time of your trial. I saw you there—once—on the street."

"Once?" he echoed incredulously.

"Once," she repeated tersely.

"And you remembered me—even with 'Mr. Moore's' sun-glasses and sore eyes? That is almost a compliment, isn't it?"

"Your notoriety made you a striking figure, if that is what you mean!" she flung back at him.

"I'm sorry I invited that," he said with a wry grimace. "But your brother, then? That is what I cannot understand. You were days together on the ship; you knew he was in disguise, and presumably knew both his purpose and the story of the idols, since at the end he turned over to you the one he had got hold of. How is it possible, in view of this, or logical in any way, that you should have said, in your cabin on the Monotah, that I was the man he was after?"

She turned her head away.

"I did not know my brother was on the Monotah until he—he lay dying in my cabin," she answered. He stared at her in amazement.

"I don't understand," he said blankly.

"I did not understand then myself," she said; "but, though it is quite clear to me now, I don't see why I should explain anything to you—and yet"—she paused an instant in indecision, frowning over the schooner's side—"and yet I suppose there is no valid reason why I shouldn't. My brother's special field was amongst the natives. He spoke I don't know how many languages and dialects. I have known him to live unaccompanied in their quarters and villages as one of themselves for months at a time. We had left Singapore on the Monotah together. "It"—her voice faltered a little—"it was to have been a holiday trip. A few days out from Singapore he received a code message by wireless from headquarters. I do not know what the message was, except that he said he had been detained to a case, and that his holiday was there and then at an end. He left the ship at the next port, a little place called Malmochi, but insisted that I should continue the trip. Indeed, there was nothing else for me to do, and no other or quicker way of getting back to Singapore than by making the round voyage with the Monotah. I did not see him again until, as I said, he fell dying on the floor of my cabin. I know now what he did. He went ashore with all his belongings at Malmochi, but, before the ship sailed, he came on board again in the character of that East Indian fakir. I should never have known that he was on the Monotah if it had not been for the danger the ship was in that night. He was coming to my cabin then to be with me at the last. I know that. Nothing else mattered then."

Bob Kingsley leaned suddenly, earnestly forward.

"Yes!" he said in quick, eager tones "Yes, that's it! And I know now what that code message was about, and what his object was!"

"I have always supposed you knew!" she said monotonously.

He made a swift gesture with his hands as though to brush her remark aside.

"Will you tell me what he said when he gave you the idol?" he asked.

STOP BAD BREATH

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take thirty for a week and note the effect. 15c, 50c, 60c. All Druggists.

Do You Know What a Woman of 30 Should Weigh?

It all depends on her height of course.
If she is five feet seven inches in height she should weigh according to the best authorities 142 pounds.
If she is 5 feet 5 inches her normal weight is 134 pounds.
If she is 5 feet 3 inches she should weigh 127 pounds.

It's dangerous to be always striving to grow thin—the Adirondack Mountains and health resorts everywhere are filled with health shattered women who will tell you "that it doesn't pay to be too thin."

That is why so many thousands of underweight men and women are putting their faith in McCoy's Tablets.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets of 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

The name McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets has been short-ned—just ask for McCoy's Tablets at any drug store in America.

YOUNG MATRON MUCH ENTHUSED Smilingly Tells of Amazing Manner in Which World's Tonic Banished Catarrh

Men and women in every section of East Liverpool are using World's Tonic Catarrhal Treatment and highly praise it for the surprising results it is bringing.

A young matron of Edgewood avenue is one of those who are highly enthusiastic about World's Tonic. A little over a week ago this young woman purchased a bottle of World's Tonic. Yesterday she returned and bought her second bottle. Then she smilingly told the man:

"Your treatment proved to be what I had long been looking for. I had catarrh had become very bad and it seemed like I couldn't find anything that would help it. It was really getting serious. I'd been troubled for five years and had got to a point where I had headaches constantly, hawked and spit mucus all the time, had ringing in my ears, dry scales in my nose, watery eyes and just felt bad and disagreeable all over.

"Well, as I said, the World's Tonic Treatment was just what I needed. I haven't had a headache since I started using it and the mucus in my nose and throat also disappeared almost at once. The ringing in my ears and all the other distress of the catarrh has left and I'm feeling better all over than for a long time."

World's Tonic Catarrhal Treatment is made for catarrh. It not only combats catarrh in the head, nose and throat, but also at its very source—within the system, and that is why it is able to bring such amazing benefit.

Get World's Tonic today at Carnahan's, also C. N. Brannan's, Wellsville, or any other reliable druggists. (251).
